The partners at Phillips Solicitors are delighted to announce that Ann Corrigan has accepted their invitation to become a partner in the firm, from 1st July, bringing the total to seven partners. Ann is no stranger as she has worked for Phillips as a senior solicitor for three years and brings exceptional talent and experience as a family lawyer and mediator. Ann is a full member of Resolution (formerly the Solicitors Family Law Association), sits on the Resolution National Training Committee and is an Accredited Trainer, lecturing nationally to other family practitioners. Ann was also one of the first collaborative lawyers to be trained in the UK.

Ann says: 'I am delighted to become a partner in this forward-looking firm and hope to help lead its future development by continuing the drive to provide excellent standards of service for our clients.'

Howard Gardener, senior partner, comments: 'Ann is a high calibre family solicitor and mediator and we look forward to the dynamism and enthusiasm that Ann will bring to our partnership. Her appointment falls in line with realising our strategic objectives for the next phase of our growth and development.' ENDS
