Every part of our lives involves major decisions about how to plan our finances and personal affairs. With life and legislation becoming ever more complicated it's hard to keep up with changes. This is why Phillips Solicitors have teamed up with Baker Tilly, accountants, and Clydesdale Bank to put together a series of three seminars which will cover all the key planning stages over a lifetime.

These seminars have been designed especially for individuals with high incomes, substantial assets, business interests and complex taxation affairs in mind. We will be looking at unique life changes from every angle – legal, accounting and financial and will be addressing all aspects during our series of three seminars, taking place over the next nine months.

The first seminar, on Thursday 20th September, focuses on property, often the largest single asset any of us usually owns, and you will discover how to plan effectively and get the best investment results from both private and business properties over the course of your lifetime.
